American Fidelity Assurance Company Becomes ASBO Strategic Partner

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK (March 26, 2012) – American Fidelity Assurance Company (AFA) is the newest strategic partner for the Association of School Business Officials (ASBO).

As an ASBO International strategic partner (the highest level of partnership available to industry partners), American Fidelity will expand and strengthen its relationship with school business officials. "American Fidelity has provided a full range of customized solutions for the education community since 1960," says Keith Johnson, senior vice-president and national director of sales. "Our partnership with ASBO will extend our reach and our commitment to support the needs of school business officials and the districts they serve."

American Fidelity stands ready to support ASBO and remain partners for years to come. The company provides supplemental health insurance benefits and specialized employer services designed specifically for the education community. As an industry leader in Section 125 Plan administration, American Fidelity currently provides plan services to more than 3,600 school districts in the nation. It is also a goal to provide guidance on health care reform legislation by regularly communicating changes as they are released.
